

Employees, Foundation Support Hospital and Its Heroes

"Thank you for putting yourself at risk every day and for helping save lives so we can stay safe at home."

From hand-drawn pictures, to heart-felt words, C.H. Robinson employees and their families took time to thank Minnesota doctors, nurses and other healthcare professionals working through the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Your letters of gratitude to our frontline care team members are bringing inspiration and encouragement during a very important time" said Marc Gorelick, president and chief executive officer of Minnesota Children's Hospital. In that same video message, Gorelick also praised the C.H. Robinson Foundation for a special COVID-19 grant.

"Thank you for caring for, and being the family for, the patients impacted when theirs cannot be there."

"Thank you for being the heroes and helpers we look to. We appreciate you."

"Your donation will provide much needed stability, support and resources for Children's Minnesota and the thousands of patients and families who rely on our care now and in the future" said Gorelick.

It's nice to see the cycle of gratitude continue during these Moments That Matter. 7-year-old Tenley Brown, daughter of Liz Brown, said it best in her drawing: "Thank you for saving lives. You are really, really amazing."
